Heritage day (24 September), also known as National Braai Day. Former President Nelson Mandela concisely explained it when he said the following in a Heritage Day speech: "When our first democratically-elected government decided to make Heritage Day one of our national days, we did so because we knew that our rich and varied cultural heritage has a profound power to help build our new nation".

Christ The King Hospital community is a conglomeration of diverse cultures and religions. It is in days like these where our forebears' vision of a Rainbow Nation is translated into actual practice. Our heritage is our identity which is witnessed through our languages, clothes, food, norms and values, etc. As a result, CTK Wellness Committee decided to take advantage of the day and create awareness on how to be united in our diversity.

All departments were requested to showcase traditional cuisine of their choice. People were also dressed to kill in traditional attire, as can be witnessed in the photo gallery. It was a fun-filled day with staff members wallowing in food and drinks. Traditional dance was the order of the day. Support shown by staff and management was overwhelming, without it, the day would not have been the success that it turned out to be.
