St. Apollinaris Hospital Hosted Music Concert

Most people define music as a universal language because it bridges culture diversity; to sing and dance for one song. One can use music to distress as it may uplift one's spirit.

On Wednesday, 15th of October 2014, St. Apollinaris Hospital hosted a music concert where we invited some government departments such as schools, SAPS, Health and Ingwe local Municipality.

The main objective of this music was to showcase the hidden talents and to encourage staff to see sports as an important activity in our department. There were different categories of music and traditional dances. Our Hospital Choir entertained the audience with music, optimally.

The Harry Gwala Health District choral competition will take place on Wednesday; 29 October 2014 at UMzimkhulu Hospital and St. Apollinaris Hospital Choir promised to do as they did last year.

St. Apollinaris Hospital Management would like to extend the words of gratitude to all staff members and stakeholders who made the event successful.
